SOC AS A SERVICE

SOCs (security operations centres) aim to defend an organisation against the internal and external threats. The SOC provides an always-on central location to monitor, detect and action any threats such as hacks, phishing or data breaches.

Historically, SOC's have been in place only at very large companies and required a lot of resources, expert staff and cost to setup, run and maintain. This has now changed as technology became more accessible and allows SOC to be run as a service by a specialised partner and at a much-reduced cost.

At HLB Digital, we provide custom service based on your business specific needs.

HLB Digital's SOC is ISO27001 certified and powered by industry leading security technologies. Our team of experts includes security analysts, incident responders and subject matter experts with years of experience in cybersecurity, removing the need for you to have a dedicated resource.

We deliver cutting edge SOC and Managed security services to our clients that provide you with support from the beginning of the process of integrating a new system in your firm, developing your action plan and security monitoring and incident response.

SOC as service is a subscription-based offering which removes the need for costly servers and resources to run, maintain and update. The as-a-service offering provides all you need in an end-to-end security solution.

OUR APPROACH

HLB Digital's SOC service includes partnering with your existing IT team in order to learn your company's technology fingerprint and set up the processes to deal with any potential cybersecurity threats in the future while providing the information they need to prevent and action any incidents.

Our team of security experts are able to detect and respond to a range of cyber-attacks and intrusions and defend your organisation effectively and efficiently. Our fast incident response times will essentially lower costs and damage associated with breaches.

With a wide range of data from your organisation we are able to enhance organisational resilience against cyber threats which ensures the improvement of your organisation's security posture.
