HLB named top Most Loved Workplace® in inaugural Newsweek global ranking

LONDON – HLB, a leading global network of independent advisory and accounting firms, is thrilled to announce its recognition as the top Most Loved Workplace® 2023 in the inaugural global ranking of most loved workplaces by Newsweek. This prestigious accolade reinforces HLB's commitment to creating an exceptional work environment that fosters employee well-being, engagement, and growth.

Newsweek's global ranking of most loved workplaces evaluated companies from various industries around the world based on employee feedback, workplace culture, and initiatives that promote employee satisfaction. HLB's consistent dedication to nurturing a supportive and inclusive work environment resulted in its remarkable position as the top choice among professionals.

Marina Kooijmans, Chief People Officer at HLB, expressed her delight at the recognition, stating, "We are honoured to be recognised as the number 1 Most Loved Workplace® by Newsweek. At HLB, our people are our greatest asset, and this achievement reflects our unwavering commitment to fostering a workplace culture that values and supports every individual. We believe that a positive work environment drives success, innovation, and exceptional client service. This recognition further motivates us to continue investing in our people and their professional growth."

HLB's commitment to creating a positive work culture is evident in its range of employee-centric initiatives. These include professional development programs, mentorship opportunities, flexible work arrangements, and a strong emphasis on work-life balance. The network's inclusive approach celebrates diversity and ensures equal opportunities for all employees, fostering a sense of belonging and empowerment.

With this recognition, HLB further solidifies its position as a global leader in creating an exceptional workplace experience. The network will continue to invest in its people, foster innovation, and provide outstanding client service, driven by a team of highly engaged professionals.
